ELECTION FOR THE NORTH EASTERN BOROUGH

| Flood | 30 |
| Plunkett | 10 |
| Majority for Flood | 14 |

Mr. Flood then addressed the meeting at very considerable length. He referred to the requisition presented to him some months since to offer himself for the North American branch, which requisition was unanimously refused. He stated that he was at a loss to understand the reasons by which those gentlemen were influenced who had signed that requisition, and had afterwards voted against him. Had he (Mr. Flood) signed such a requisition, he would certainly have felt bound to adhere to it; he had received, however, numerous letters from constituents wishing to know his intentions, which were then to withdraw himself from the constituency; and even when he had received the requisition, he had not considered the time before he replied. Other opportunities of presenting the requisition to him, had been afforded Parliament were open to him, but he had declined to do so, and the health of their fellow-citizens. He would also state that justice was coming when politics would be better understood, and that he would entertain broader views, and would exercise the duties of citizens without consulting the colour of their skin, or the watchword of a party.

The speaker was interrupted by many interruptions from the friends of Mr. Flood, and after a few sheets for that gentleman, the meeting separated.

INCIDENT.—A collision took place about seven o'clock yesterday evening, at the corner of George and Hume streets, between the carriage of Mr. T. Walker, and the carriage of Mr. W. Walker. The latter was thrown out, but not injured. A number of persons were in the bus, who, of course, were very much scared. One of the carriage springs was bent out of shape.

[FROM A CORRESPONDENT]

Mr. Evans stated that he had with Mr. Cate, canvassed the election, and had secured the election of one hundred votes. (Cheers.) In fact, it only required a little exertion to secure the return of the electors to the county. His dignity as a public services were generally known and appreciated. (He had been Mr. Evans) for the county, he should be proud to propose him as a candidate. Mr. Edwin Hickey be requested to do so, and that Captain Hungerford, who took a warm interest in the election, be requested to second the motion. The motion of Mr. Mitchell secured the motion, which was unanimously agreed to. Mr. Garrick said he would use all the influence in his power to support the object of the meeting, and was quite prepared to personally canvass the electors and otherwise forward the election of the Attorney-General for the county. Mr. Cate then moved that the meeting adjourn, and that the expenses be incurred. (Cheers.) A desultory conversation followed. A subscription was opened, and several gentlemen at once subscribed, with expressions of their willingness to supplement their subscriptions if found necessary, and the committee was extended. After a few other matters of the detail had been disposed of, the meeting dispersed.

COUNTY OF ARKANSAS NOMINATION: (CONCLUDED - FROM OUR REPORTER).

Mr. Terence Aubrey Murray came forward amidst general and most enthusiastic cheering, which lasted for a considerable time. He said that he appeared before them to propose another candidate, at the same time he had not the most distant idea of indulging in personalities, or reflecting upon the character of the other candidates. (Cries of "No per-number amounted to 246, and out of that (the latter number) he was told that 39 were liable to objections, and that upwards of 60 had no votes at all. Therefore he thought that they were bound to listen to the proposition for the election of a more eligible candidate, and that whatever course might be pursued by the electors, they should sign the requisition to Mr. Chisholm, the rest of the electors—comprising, as they did, the great majority—could act as they thought fit, and return the candidate whom he now had selected, and return the honour of proposing to them John Hubertus Plunkett. (Great cheering, waving of hats, and other tokens of approval.)

justice that Mr. Canham, in his address to the electors, had been more explicit with respect to the political opinions by which he was actuated. The land question was one of the most momentous of its importance, and the address of Mr. Canham on that important subject was not clear or satisfactory. The gentleman had contented himself by saying, with reference to the land question, "that the entire Crown lands within the settled district of the colony should be at once thrown open to the community." But the land in the settled districts was already thrown open, the pre-so far as he thought his official duty allowed him to be—because he has invariably evinced his attachment to liberal principles when official duty did not in his estimation dictate another course to him—because, beyond almost any other public man in this community, Mr. Plunkett had been thoroughly tolerant, charitable, and liberal in religious questions, allowing every man to follow his own conscience, and showing the example which he claimed for himself and his co-religionists—because he is a gentleman, in the truest and highest sense of that much-abused word, and such men are calculated to raise the general tones of the debates—because, lastly, he has had a long legislative experience.

Mr. P. DIGNAM came forward and was heartily welcomed. He said that it was his intention to second the nomination of Mr. Plunkett. (Cheers and hisses.) He knew Mr. Chisholm to be a strictly upright and honourable man, but in point of education and political ability, he was not to be placed in comparison with Mr. Plunkett, and therefore he had great pleasure in seconding that gentleman's nomination.

Mr. FITZPATRICK then came to the front of the hustings, and was cordially welcomed by the multitude. He was like many others of the townspeople too busily employed in following his ordinary avocations, to at-

to the appeal, as he thought some person possessing more ability and more fully acquainted with political business ought to be found; but when it appeared that the constituency would have to elect such a man from the community of Sydney, and appoint a non-resident as their representative, and he acceded to their request and to make brilliant speeches, yet his votes should be found on the side of his constituents. (Loud prolonged applause.) With respect to the Convention, the two-thirds clause could be got rid of if our representatives were returned, and it might be a perfect measure. The pension list might be done away with or altered, although Mr. Plunkett was likely to be a pensioner, with a pension of £1200 per year. (Great confusion.) And there was another important topic for their consideration. Some persons, Mr. Plunkett among the number, wanted to reduce number of country members, and increase that of

The returning officer then called for a show of hands, and declared that it was in favour of Mr. Plunkett. There was no doubt but that Mr. Plunkett had the support of the majority of persons then assembled on his side; and very difficult to conjecture as to the result of a poll. The meeting then adjourned to the hall of the police inhabiting the surrounding districts of Marston, Hagston, Collector, &c., are chiefly small farmers, and agriculturist. Mr. Chisholm's speech has been generally considered very wise and judicious, and has been very much appreciated by the electors; in fact, he has had nothing better to do with the election, the movement in his own being quite voluntary on the part of his Constituents. Others, who would not like such an attempt to be excluded and to come forward for election. Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mr. Chisholm demanded a poll, the official result of which, we understand, is proclaimed on Thursday next. The three candidates were up for each of the three candidates, and the returning officer, after which a meeting broke up.

ADDITIONAL POLLING PLACES.—Clarence Town, Bedford, and Hinton, have been appointed additional polling places for the electoral district of the county Durham.

COLONIAL ARCHITECT.—Alexander Dawson, Esq.,

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald, I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your speech, in your journal, to the electors of Gloucester and Macquarie, at Raymond Terrace, on Saturday and I feel my cheek burning with the blush of shame and indignation at the charge of being addressed as justice to myself. You will, therefore, I trust, in justice to me, give insertion to this in tomorrow's issue, so that the antidote may, as some possibly follow this page.

After referring to the claims of the other candidates, I said "the next candidate in the list is myself, and I have no doubt but that I am not altogether guiltless of it; but there were some cases, this was one, in which it was absolutely necessary for a man to depart from his usual custom. Much has been said of the necessity of steam communication from the establishment of steam communication in the Manning River, and my friends on the Manning River, probably more credit than I deserved, have been the cause of my being mentioned in several of the recent newspapers, regarding steam communication with Europe—no one could say I was guilty of any crime, and I am not conscious of it. I will tell you what I have done, as it could be generally known. Some six months ago I proposed and carried up a plan of establishing steam communication to the Manly shore, and I have not yet been successful. I submitted that plan to a friend of my father's, a shrewd, cautious man, and he was so well sa-

The consumption of imported wheat and flour in the Mauritius, during the year 1855 was as follows:—

used $707,168, of which only $2,122 1/2 17d. was expended for charitable purposes. In previous years the contractors had been paid for work of chest stills to the amount of $1555 to the municipal chest, has outstanding debts to the amount of $2315. The quantity used exceeded $7300. The direct taxes on the property were $782, and we request to observe that the amount of arrears is as large as ever it was, being no more than $10,568."

The want of a continuous supply of pure, wholesome water, for domestic purposes, has long been felt in the city of Port Louis. Eitherly the water is derived that scanty supply from the Moulins, or is obtained from the Moulins. At the end of last year, however, the Municipal Council accepted tenders for constructing a new aqueduct, notwithstanding which (the Gazette remarks) "the water has been pure to the fact that we shall be obliged to purchase water from the Moulins, and water that the present canal can give us. And, we request to say it, bid is the best—every day the water is becoming worse. The residue from distilleries is now conveyed in the direction; in the other the quality of water is much more."

position of Mr. W. Weaver, who has retained since the commencement of the year at the request of the Governor General, until Mr. Dawson could be appointed. We perceive by advertisement that Mr. Weaver has commenced the private practice of his profession, at his office, 25, Pitt-street.
